

US Gross Domestic Product (GDP) - Get ready for this anticipated publication: US fourth-quarter economic growth report Friday, January 26, 2018 at 13:30 GMT Last quarter, the US Gross Domestic Product (GDP) has missed expectations, with a reading of 2.1% vs 2.2% forecast. For the last quarter of 2017, the consensus sees a further expansion of the US economy and anticipates a reading of 2.3%. Gross Domestic Product (GDP) gauges the inflation-adjusted value of all goods and services produced within the economy. It is the most comprehensive measure of economic activity and an important indicator of economic health. The US economy is viewed to be in great shape, yet fragile and investor sentiment seems to have picked this up, as a number of unresolved questions, such as the true economic impact of the new US fiscal policy, have negatively affected the course of the US dollar. Source: AvaTrade Forex Broker
